Why I Started Balancing Act

For two decades, I observed the financial services industry from the inside — and saw both its strengths and its contradictions.

The system often created quiet conflicts: decisions were shaped by the products that paid commissions rather than by what families truly needed.

At 43, I achieved financial independence — not through speculation, but through disciplined asset allocation, patience, and a clear understanding of what I wanted from my financial life.

PROFESSIONAL EXPERIENCE

- BSE (Bombay Stock Exchange)
- Bank of America
- Tata Capital
- TCS

EDUCATION

- Chartered Accountant (CA)
- IIM Ahmedabad (PGPX — One Year Full Time MBA)

CORE BELIEF

The starting point should always be a person's life — their goals, responsibilities, and aspirations — not a product to sell.

The Balancing Act Framework

01

Discover Your Goals

Understand what you want your money to do for you.

02

Assess Financial Position

Income, expenses, assets, liabilities — a complete picture.

03

Portfolio & Risk Analysis

Review existing investments for diversification and alignment.

04

Personalized Investment Strategy

Asset allocation, instrument selection, and tax optimization.

05

Execution Support

Disciplined implementation through the right platforms.

06

Ongoing Monitoring

Regular reviews and rebalancing as life and markets evolve.

Client Stories

Cross-Border Clarity for an NRI

SITUATION

An NRI based out of Singapore with assets across India, Singapore and USA. Assets were mostly in savings account or low yielding deposits with certain investments in US stocks and ETFs.

STRATEGY

Clarified financial goals, aligned asset allocation across three geographies with goal horizons and risk considerations, and highlighted rebalancing needs.

OUTCOME

Achieved clarity on all goals, initiated rebalancing over 18 to 24 months in a tax efficient manner.

Building a Foundation for the Future

SITUATION

Singapore domiciled NRI planning to start a family who was investing mostly based on advice from friends or family.

STRATEGY

Comprehensive plan distributing incremental investments across India and Global Equities with execution in a systematic manner.

OUTCOME

Automated investments across geographies on track to meet goals ranging from education to retirement.

From Product-Led to Goal-Led Investing

SITUATION

A senior professional in Mumbai had investments primarily in real estate, endowment policies, and certain Mutual Funds through SIPs.

STRATEGY

Created a complete financial plan allocating assets to goals. Realigned equity mutual funds into core and satellite as per time remaining to goal.

OUTCOME

Outcome based investing aligned to goals rather than different assets bought at different points of time.

These case studies reflect specific client situations. Financial decisions and outcomes may differ based on individual circumstances and market conditions.
